Reward for helping road accident victims

LOKMAT NEWS NETWORK

Good Samaritans in Nashik can now get paid for helping accident victims in the event. The move gives such persons monetary incentive of awarding cash prizes to individuals and organisations that provide aid to people hurt in mishaps on highways extensively.

Announced over the day the scary time we are in immediate medical and other facilities are not available to accident victims, the government has taken this decision. Meaning, changes have been made in laws related to the time to people who help accident victims have to face police checking and various questions.

Police superintendent, highway police, district police superintendent and chief of the police have been given the authority to take decision about the motorists, organisations giving out aid to the accident victims. If the government finds a records of the decision taken on the applications which are released then, January to December will be taken by the end of March. Last year, 4 consumers had been defined to receive housing applications.

First prize of Rs 1.5 lakh

For extending a helping hand to accident victims, first prize will be of Rs 1.5 lakh, second prize of Rs 1 lakh and third prize will be of Rs 50,000. These prizes will be given from the home ministry's own source funds.

Additional chief secretary of Home Ministry will head the committee that will also comprise representatives from consumer chief secretary, traffic department's secretary and additional police director general.

Mitigate trouble for helpers

People who take accident victims to hospitals are not to be troubled by police. They have to provide their name, permanent address and other details. Due to such kinds of measures, people will be able to help victims and the injured. Thus, a new statutory law has been made in the legal system so that these Samaritans don't have to visit police stations in order to "show the culprits".
